The Lynnwood Chamber (The chamber) is deeply committed to protecting the privacy of Internet users. Below is information outlining our continued support for the responsible management of consumer information.

Consumer Information

The Lynnwood Chamber does obtain some types of non-personally identifiable information such as the Internet Service Provider you use to connect to the Internet, your browser type, or the type of computer operating system you use (Macintosh or Windows, for example). The information collected by the chamber is used for the purpose of making a content targeted for users and making sure the site is compatible with all of our user's systems.

When you submit personal information to the chamber, it is only used by the chamber for the reason(s) requested. The chamber does not solicit e-mail addresses or any other personal information submitted. Personal information submitted to the chamber is intended for the sole use of the chamber and is not shared, sold, or disclosed to members of a third party.

Cookies

The chamber does not use "cookies" on its web site.

If you have any additional questions about the chamber dedication to consumer privacy, please contain email info@thelynnwoodchamber.com.
